CARMEL MYERS

HEADLINER

Just Finished Three Consecutive Weeks Palace Theatre, New York City, Riverside Theatre, New York City, and Orpheum Theatre, Los Angeles.

Comments of Critics in New York City and Los Angeles:

"Miss Myers of the films is a knockout redhead with a load of stage personality and the best singing voice brought into vaude to date by women picture players of the silent days. Her voice is almost as much a surprise as Gloria Swanson's in the latter's smash picture "The Trespasser" ... Singing five songs, one as an encore, at the Palace, Miss Myers denoted her voice is built for ballads. Smartly that is the type of song she is singing. Two of the five are described in announcements as sung by the stage singer in two films, "Broadway Scandals" and "Careers".... looks like a million in ermine wrap and decollette. Potentially box offices with a picture name as base, Miss Myers can be built into a draw by vaude. She won't disappoint them inside.—"Variety," Nov. 6th.

"Miss Myers has the edge on her fellow film-vaudeville colleagues who have preceded her into the Broadway house due to the fact that she has a distinctive offering. The songs were pretty generally above the usual run and her voice pleasing throughout and tastefully used."—N. Y. "Telegram," Nov. 4th.

"The Palace Revue. What about Carmel Myers? She is from pictures too, isn't she? Right again. Miss Myers looks like a picture player. Stunning in a white ermine evening wrap and a white evening gown underneath. Classy duds. But far more important from a stage viewpoint, Miss Myers has a singing voice. Sings ballads pleasingly. This plus her looks establishes her as an extraordinary singing woman, also with box office ability."—"Variety," Nov. 6th.

"Carmel Myers, motion picture star, whose cycle of songs revealed a pleasing voice, was well received."—N. Y. "Herald-Tribune," Nov. 4th.

"Carmel Myers, in a cycle of songs, demonstrates a pleasant personality .... she has lots of poise, and looks exceedingly well and probably rates as the best of the movie heroine importations to the Palace recently."—R. de R., N. Y. "Sun," Nov. 4th.

"Carmel Myers was a positive delight in her warbling repertoire. This screen satellite might have surprised even her closest boosters, since her pipes register even better on the stage than in talkies. The girl has a sob in her voice, and the kind of a sob that landed Jolson, Jessell et al. on Easy Street. Whatever they're paying her for this vaudeville jaunt is not enough. Of charming mien, ingratiating personality and a gift for wearing clothes, Miss Myers should be one of the season's vaudeville sensations. Discrimination used in her choice of warble material, too. Most of the numbers are from theme-song catalogs. She had to beg off."—"Billboard," Nov. 9th.

"Carmel Myers, the screen vamp, won first honors of the evening. She is even more alluring on the stage than on the screen and, as a singer, has a soft and mellow voice. She did several songs and has a good style of delivery. Her song from the "Broadway Scandals" was sung with a slight French accent that won heart applause."—N. Y. "Zits," Nov. 23rd.

"Miss Myers is impressive in her appearance. Her singing voice is clear and resonant and her series of songs have been well selected. The high spot of her act is "At the End of the Road," in which she is magnificent. Personally I think she gives the best performance of any of the stars who have turned to the two-a-day."—L. A. "Evening Herald," Dec. 2nd.

"Carmel Myers Wins Audience in Orpheum Act." "Carmel Myers headlines the current and final vaudeville bill at the Orpheum, and again it is opportune to bring out the good old caption, 'Local Girl Makes Good.' Miss Myers' magnetic personality, charming stage presence and pleasing voice impress even the seasoned variety fans. She sings "The End of the Road," and two songs from motion pictures in which she has recently appeared."—Henry Goss, L. A. "Examiner," Dec. 2nd.

Last British Picture ("The Scarlet Daredevil")

The Sept. Photoplay says: "Here's another from the British shore, noticeably better than others imported this year. A roistering, blood thirsty melodrama of the merry times of Robespiere and Madame LaGuillotine. It contains a very distinguished characterization (Juliette Compton) who is ravishing as a political intriguante, ought to be besieged by offers from American producers on the strength of her work in this picture.

FOUR YEARS IN FEATURED CHILD PARTS

"Freddie Burke Frederick, the little boy in this story, you will admire as the finest boy actor ever seen."—Middletown, Conn., Press.

"Freddie Burke Frederick in less gifted company might steal the whole of this screen show. He has the house with him all the way."—Boston American.

"Freddie Burke Frederick is the child actor and he gives an unaffected and delightful performance. His appeal to the audience was quite apparent from his first entrance and hankerchiefs were very much in evidence during many of the "sob" sequences."—Boston Post.

"Miss Frederick's scenes with her son are especially affecting and there were few dry eyes in the Pheil yesterday during that sequence. The boy is great, playing his part with a naturalness that makes him remarkably appealing."—St. Petersburg, Fla., Independent.

Freddie Burke Frederick is the kind of child to make mothers want to hug him. One can understand why the sight of the child makes the broken-hearted mother feel she must talk to him, kiss him and hold him in her arms, no matter what it costs her."—Boston Evening Globe.

"One of the best performances in the picture is by Freddie Burke Frederick, a child of 7. He is a real find for the talkies."—Kansas City, Mo., Star.

"Little Freddie Burke Frederick nearly steals the spotlight of the entire picture. He is wonderful."—Ogden, Utah, Standard Examiner.

"The child's comprehension of his role is amazing—or bespeaks direction of a superlative order."—Toledo, O., Times.

"Freddie Burke Frederick brings distinction to his name, and strikes a very human cord in those who are privileged to witness his almost perfect work."—Lowell (Mass.) Telegram.

"The boy portrayed by Freddie Burke Frederick is one of the fine points of the film."—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

Above are a few criticisms typical of those Freddie's work, in "Evidence," received in all parts of the country

Billy Mann's new role is Santa Claus

SITTING in the chimney corner—wondering. Sitting and wondering what to give besides bathrobes, smoking jackets and pocket flasks for Christmas.

Ah! Shell scrip books! Miles and miles of pleasure. Unique and unusual enough. Graduated sizes $5, $10, $20, Sold!

Therewith Billy Mann became Saint Nick and is busy answering the phone and filling orders. Scrip books, any size, good at any Shell dealer for Shell 400, the "dry" gas and Shell Motor Oil that forms no hard carbon.

Billy ("Santa Claus") Mann HE 4149 TR 9021
